Introduction

The Proprietor, Headteacher and Senior Leadership Team at Overley Hall School (Overley) receive scrutiny from a number of external specialists such as:

- ✿ Quality assurance visits from Local Authorities with learners at Overley
- ✿ School Improvement Partner(s)
- ✿ OFSTED
- ✿ Safeguarding Boards

Internally as a Proprietor owned school, scrutiny comes from Company Board Meetings that are responsible and receive reports on company finances, health and safety, recruitment, education and care. The company board have external specialists in the fields of health and safety and recruitment who offer additional oversight and support.

The headteacher is determined to ensure that a level of support and scrutiny also comes from within school and this has been promoted in the formation of the Support and Scrutiny Board (see below)

Internal oversight and responsibilities at Overley Hall School.

Internal oversight by the education management team is an ongoing process at Overley with regular lesson observations assessing the quality of teaching and learning and walk-arounds that ensure that the learning environment is available and used by all. School improvement professionals also visit and leave notes of visits regarding their observations.

As an additional layer of scrutiny, the education management team has developed a Support and Scrutiny Board (SAS Board). The SAS Board hears an overview of school actions, asks questions, shares ideas and challenges themselves and school leaders to maintain the high standards that are set and strive to make Overley Hall School the best it could possibly be.

The benefits of having a Support and Scrutiny Board made up of people who know the inside workings of the school well was deemed to be stronger than having people who had no in-depth awareness on the board.

These advantages were:

- ✿ Board members have a deeper understanding of the day-to-day workings of the school
- ✿ Board members have a lived experience of what happens on a typical day at school
- ✿ Board members being aware of Overley 'warts and all!'
- ✿ Board members have an established good working relationship and are therefore confident in questioning and challenging other members
- ✿ Discussions are able to take place between members easily between meetings.

The risks associated with having members of staff as Governance members are

- ✿ Working relationships being affected by scrutiny
- ✿ Vested interests in the areas in which they work being preferred

Aims of the SAS Board.

To provide support and scrutiny of:

- ✿ The development and completion of the school improvement plan
- ✿ Safeguarding provision, training and learning points
- ✿ 6th form provision including work experience
- ✿ SEND provision
- ✿ Pupil premium spending
- ✿ Safeguarding provision
- ✿ Behaviour management
- ✿ Attendance management
- ✿ School finance
- ✿ Learner numbers
- ✿ The school website
- ✿ Therapy provision and contacts

- ✿ Learner progress
- ✿ Health and Safety provision and incidents

In addition to this SAS Board members agree policies and procedures and discuss notes of visit/ feedback from external visitors (this may include feedback left by parents following an event).
